Welcome to Vermont's Organic Farm and Food Guide!

This guide is your key to finding Vermont's certified organic, locally grown bounty. We are fortunate, in Vermont, to be able to eat local and organic food—you don't have to choose! Inside, you will find all of the certified organic producers in your community and the farmers markets, farm stands, and Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) farms closest to your home—you can find everything from maple syrup to raspberries, fresh peas to chicken.

If you have followed the labeling law for foods containing genetically modified organisms (GMOs), you know that Vermont was the first state in the country to mandate the labeling of GMO foods which takes effect July 1, 2016. Did you also know that certified organic foods are always GMO-free? In addition, the organic seal means that your food is free from synthetic pesticides and fertilizers, that livestock have access to the outdoors, and that farmers are working to build the health of their soils, crops, and animals.

The number of organic farms and processors continues to increase in Vermont, so there are many farms and businesses to explore—in 2015, there were 589 certified organic farms and processors producing organic food on 122,825 acres in Vermont, and over 20% of the dairy farms in Vermont are certified organic! Those certified organic producers are participating in local and regional markets, maintaining working landscapes, and contributing to the success of other local businesses.

You can find certified organic products at farmstands, stores, restaurants, through mail order, or you can “pick your own” at the farm—there are so many opportunities to support Vermont's farmers and processors.

More information is always available on our website, www.nofavt.org. So, take some time to wind your way around Vermont and engage in gustatory pleasure—each part of Vermont celebrates different tastes, and tells a different food story. Enjoy!

NOFA Vermont

The Northeast Organic Farming Association of Vermont (NOFA Vermont) has been growing local farms, healthy food, and strong communities since 1971.

What We Do

- Educate students about agriculture and make local food available in school cafeterias
- Provide educational workshops to home gardeners, homesteaders, farmers, and food lovers
- Help you find local, organic food
- Support the development of Vermont's farmers markets, Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) farms and farm stands
- Increase access to organic food to Vermonters of all income levels
- Advocate for food and farming policies that support healthy food systems, like mandatory GMO labeling
- Provide technical assistance to organic farmers and gardeners
- Certify organic farmers and processors in Vermont; in 2015, 589 producers managed 122,825 acres of certified organic crop land

Vermont Organic Farmers, LLC

NOFA Vermont's Organic Certification Program

Vermont Organic Farmers (VOF), the certification program of NOFA Vermont, was created in 1985 to help producers and concerned consumers define what it meant to farm organically. These standards for organic production in Vermont were created by the farmers who were dedicated to practices that used a holistic approach to soil fertility, pest control, and plant and animal health.

In 2002, with input from the organic community, the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) implemented the National Organic Program (NOP), which created national standards for organic food.

The role of VOF is to certify farmers and processors to the NOP standards, which ensures that producers are achieving the necessary requirements.

Our purpose is to provide a highly credible program for independent third-party verification of organic food production, and to assist Vermont farmers and processors of all types to achieve the highest possible organic standards.

To view the complete standards for crop, livestock, maple, and food processing, please visit the NOFA Vermont website: www.nofavt.org/organic.

Look for the VOF logo the next time you are shopping to support local organic producers!

What is “Certified Organic”?

Ten things you should know

Certified organic farmers and processors are committed to a food system that works with natural systems to improve soil, protect your health, and produce great-tasting food. Below are some of the requirements they follow to become certified.

- 1 Farmers use land management practices that protect natural resources, conserve biodiversity, and improve the health of their soil.
- 2 Farmers maximize animal welfare by raising livestock in an environment where stress is minimized and where they are able to exhibit their natural behaviors such as grazing, rooting, and scratching. Animals are given daily access to the outdoors, year round.
- 3 For maple syrup production, sap is collected using practices that ensure the long-term sustainable management of the sugarbush and promote forest ecosystem health. Maple syrup is tested for lead levels, and synthetic defoamers may not be used when boiling.
- 4 Prohibited pesticides, herbicides, and synthetic fertilizers cannot be used in crop production. Furthermore, producers must maintain buffers that prevent contamination drift from prohibited substances and neighboring GMO crops.
- 5 Organic production prohibits GMOs, including seeds, livestock feeds, and ingredients used in processed products.
- 6 Livestock are fed 100% organic feed. They do not receive conventional, genetically modified corn and soybeans, hormones or antibiotics. They also must obtain a significant portion of their diet from certified organic pasture grasses during the grazing season.
- 7 Meat from animals treated with hormones, antibiotics, or synthetic parasiticides cannot be sold as organic. Farmers use preventive healthcare practices and only approved treatments when necessary.
- 8 Processed foods (such as cheese, bread, or jam) are produced with certified organic ingredients. Artificial colors and flavors, preservatives such as nitrates, and other synthetic additives are prohibited.
- 9 Certified organic products are randomly subject to pesticide residue tests. The allowable limit of pesticide residue on organic food is just 5% of what the EPA allows on conventional produce.
- 10 Organic certification is the only label backed by clear legal definitions and independent third-party verification. All certified operations participate in an annual inspection of their premises, purchases, and practices to ensure the integrity of the organic seal.

What About Other Labels?

Certified Organic is the only food label with a clear legal definition, a process for public input, and mandatory third-party inspections. The proliferation of various claims on food packages today can be dizzying. So, what exactly do these other labels mean?

CATLIN GILDREN/CATTAIL CREATIVE

Natural

When shopping for food, do some research before buying “natural” products—the label isn’t verified and each company can use its own definition. While both the USDA and FDA have each defined what “natural” should mean for some products, neither agency provides verification, meaningful oversight or enforcement of the natural label. “Natural” foods can be made with artificial and genetically engineered ingredients. Produce can be grown with pesticides and meat can be raised with antibiotics and synthetic animal feed.

Free Range

Free range is a claim that implies a meat or poultry product comes from an animal that was raised in the open air. However, the only requirement is that an animal can access the outdoors—which doesn’t mean it actually does. The USDA regulates this label for poultry only; there are no legal standards for “free range” egg production, and it doesn’t limit the use of antibiotics, hormones, or pesticides. Talk to your farmers to find out more about their free range products.

Cage-Free

Cage-free is often confused with free range. While hens laying eggs labeled as cage-free are uncaged inside barns, they may or may not have any access to the outdoors. There are no consistent standards or mandatory third-party auditing for this label and it doesn’t limit the use of antibiotics, hormones, or pesticides.

Grass-Fed

The USDA has a good definition for grass-fed that requires 100% grass-based feed over an animal’s lifetime. However, the USDA stated in 2007 that it would not limit the use of the “grass-fed” claim to producers who meet their 100% standard. Because there is no verification, the label can’t tell you if the animal was actually raised on pasture, and it doesn’t limit the use of antibiotics, hormones, or pesticides. Talk to your farmers to learn more about their grass-fed products.

Pasture Raised

There is currently no legal definition for the term “pasture raised.” While the phrase might evoke bucolic images, and could accurately describe how an animal is raised, the label can actually mean whatever the producer wants it to mean. “Pasture-raised” has no formal definition or regulation, which means there is no enforcement behind it. Talk to your farmers to learn more about their pasture raised products.

Local

The state of Vermont defines “local” products as those that originated in Vermont or within 30 miles of the place where they are sold. However, the state does not conduct inspections or actively enforce this definition.

2016 Summer Farmers Markets

All markets listed below are members of the Vermont Farmers Market Association (VTFMA). The purpose of the VTFMA is to encourage and establish successful farmers markets in Vermont that enhance opportunities for market vendors while building direct connections between vendors and local consumers. NOFA Vermont serves as the staff and fiscal agent of the VTFMA.

For the most up-to-date market information, visit our farmers market directory at www.nofavt.org. To become a member market and be listed here, please contact erin@nofavt.org or 802-434-4122.

On-Farm Workshops

July through October • Statewide

Learn something new this growing season! Are you interested in forest farming? Growing plants that attract pollinators? Improving your raspberry and blueberry production? At a Pizza Social, you can visit a beautiful farm, meet new people, enjoy wood-fired pizza, and even watch an original dance performance. Our On-farm Workshops and Pizza Socials are happening all over the state—please join us! For details and registration, please visit: www.nofavt.org/onfarmworkshops

Share the Harvest Fundraiser

October 6, 2016 • Statewide

Have a great meal and support a great cause! On Thursday, October 6, participating restaurants and stores donate a portion of their sales to NOFA Vermont's Farm Share program, providing farm-fresh food from community supported agriculture (CSA) farms to families and senior citizens with limited incomes. Make it a point to shop and eat out at some of the 80+ participating locations and help us share the harvest! A full list of participating stores and restaurants is available online at www.nofavt.org/STH.

35th Annual NOFA Vermont Winter Conference

February 18–19, 2017

University of Vermont, Burlington

Our annual Winter Conference features two full days of gardening, farming and sustainable living workshops, two keynote addresses, a trade show, and plenty of local and organic food. It's also a great way to meet like-minded folks, make new connections, and catch up with old friends. More at www.nofavt.org/conference.

How to Support Our

Vermont Organic Dairy Farmers

Vermont Organic Farmers (VOF) certifies 183 Vermont dairy farms as organic. These farmers ship fluid milk, bottle their own milk, or make various dairy products including award winning cheeses, yogurt and ice cream. The best way to support these farmers is to purchase their products. Farmers who process their own dairy products include:

Butterworks Farm milk, buttermilk, cottage cheese, cream, kefir, yogurt

Does' Leap Farm goat milk, goat cheese, and kefir

Engelbert Farms milk and cheese

Kimball Brook Farm milk, half & half, and heavy cream

Neighborly Farms milk and cheese

Rogers Farmstead milk and yogurt

Scholten Family Farm milk and cheese

Strafford Organic Creamery bottled milk, egg nog, half & half, heavy cream, and ice cream

Thistle Hill Farm milk and cheese

Von Trapp Farmstead milk and cheese

In addition, the following businesses process organic milk from Vermont farms:

Cellars at Jasper Hill cheese

Champlain Valley Creamery, LTD cheese

Vermont Farmstead Cheese Company cheese

So how can you support the other 173 organic dairy farmers who sell their milk wholesale? In Vermont, farmers ship their milk to four milk buyers. Please look for the following brands at your local store or co-op:

If your local store does not carry these brands, ask them to. By purchasing the products listed above you are ensuring that your dollars support family farmers in the Northeast and Vermont.

5 GOOD REASONS TO CHOOSE Certified Organic, Locally Grown

Your choices make a difference! Over 600 Vermont farmers and processors who make up Vermont Organic Farmers (VOF) know that choosing local and organic matters. Here are 5 reasons why:

1 Healthier for You and Your Family
Organic certification standards prohibit toxic persistent herbicides and pesticides, antibiotics, artificial hormones, and genetically modified organisms. Minimizing your exposure to these toxins can reduce your risk of cancer and other health problems. In addition, organic foods have been shown to have higher levels of beneficial nutrients such as antioxidants and Omega-3s.

2 Supports Your Community
Supporting local organic farms keeps money in the local economy and preserves Vermont's rural character. On average, organic farms create 21% more jobs than conventional farms,* helping to sustain vibrant communities.

3 Better for the Land
Organic farmers protect soil, water, and air quality with practices like crop rotation, planting cover crops, and composting. By nourishing the soil, organic farmers sequester carbon, reduce harmful runoff, and help ensure that our farmland will continue to be fertile and productive into the future.

4 Tastes Great
Healthy plants and happy animals produce great-tasting food! The short distance from farm to table means that farmers can choose varieties for flavor rather than shelf life, and can harvest at the peak of ripeness.

5 Grown Without GMOs
Buying certified organic is the best way to avoid exposure to genetically modified organisms (GMOs). Organic farmers do not use GMO seeds, plants, or animal feeds, and organic processed foods do not contain GMO ingredients.

Local Recipe

Maple Blackberry Barbeque Sauce

From Cooking Close to Home: A Year of Seasonal Recipes by Diane Imrie & Richard Jarmusz (Chelsea Green) and is reprinted here with permission of the publisher. For more information, visit www.chelseagreen.com.

Place the vinegar, maple syrup and maple sugar in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and add the onion, ginger and garlic. Reduce heat and simmer for 5 minutes.

Purée the blackberries in a food processor. Using a fine sieve, strain out the seeds and set aside the purée.

Add the ketchup, water, soy sauce, jalapeño, chili powder, paprika and the blackberry purée. Simmer for 10 to 15 minutes, until the sauce is thickened and is dark red in color. Let cool and divide into the jars. Use within a week, or freeze for later.

Note: This recipe can be made in any season using homemade ketchup, frozen blackberries and Pickled Jalapeño Peppers (see Cooking Close to Home, p. 231).

Makes four half-pint jars

2/3 cup red wine vinegar
1/2 cup maple syrup
1/2 cup maple sugar
1/2 cup onion, finely chopped
3 tablespoons fresh ginger root, minced
2 tablespoons fresh garlic, minced
1 cup fresh blackberries
3 cups ketchup (we recommend Richard's of Vermont)

1 cup water
1/2 cup soy sauce
1 tablespoon jalapeño pepper, chopped
2 teaspoons chili powder (or 1/2 teaspoon ground chipotle pepper)
2 teaspoons paprika
4 half-pint jars

To organic farmers everywhere for treating their animals and the earth with care and treating us with some of the finest organic ingredients around, thanks.

5 GOOD REASONS TO BECOME Certified Organic

Being certified organic is the fullest way to demonstrate the best practices and careful stewardship you have put into your product. Farmers cite many reasons to be certified organic, among them clear economic, social, environmental and family wellbeing benefits.

- 1 Seal of Quality The certified organic seal guarantees certain safeguards to your customer, verified by a third party: no GMOs, ionizing radiation, or sewage sludge. The regulations also require annual compliance inspections, have a strict list of approved materials, require documentation of organic practices, and provide guidelines for protecting the soil ecology and water quality. For consumers concerned about this level of traceability in their food, certified organic provides that important assurance.
- 2 Access to Markets As a certified organic grower you have many choices about where to sell your product. Many buyers, including many supermarkets and distributors and most cooperatives, seek out and promote organic products because of the increasing demand for organic foods. Whatever your marketing goals, there are many opportunities when you sell as certified organic.
- 3 Premium Price in Marketplace Food labeling can be confusing and misleading, which is why certified organic is an important choice for consumers. Consumers are willing to pay a premium for food that carries the USDA organic seal, or that contains organic ingredients. Acre for acre, growing produce organically has been shown to be more profitable than growing conventionally, and organic dairy prices are also higher and more stable for the farmer.
- 4 Environmental Stewardship As every organic farmer knows, organic production is more than just the avoidance of synthetic fertilizers, herbicides and pesticides. It is a whole system of soil management and nutrient cycling to maintain ecological balance, protect water quality, and enhance biodiversity. Organic practices have the power to increase productivity of the land over time, building fertility and biodiversity for the next generation.
- 5 A Growing Movement Join the growing number of people who address erosion, pollution and reduced soil health through holistic practices of soil, stock, and crop management. Through this choice you will join a supportive network of innovators who continue to advance organic methods and grow the success of the movement through their shared purpose.

Your Neighboring Food Co-ops...

Healthy Food &
Community Ownership
Since 1844!

Since the founding of the first successful co-operatives more than 170 years ago, food co-ops have enabled people to work together to support local farmers, improve access to healthy, affordable food, and grow community ownership. Want to know more?

Visit nfca.coop/healthyfoodaccess, or stop in at your local Vermont food co-op.
