

Farmers markets in Vermont

are as diverse as our landscape - with vendors selling a wide variety of agricultural products as well as often offering baked goods, prepared foods, and arts & crafts. As the seasons change, you can expect to find new products at the market highlighting what's in season.

Why they're great:

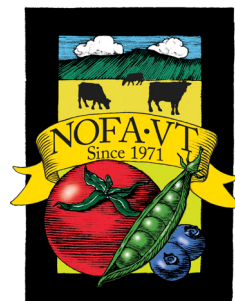

- Seasonal and certified organic items are often less expensive or competitively priced to grocery stores.
- You can find a wide variety of products, including produce, meat, eggs, dairy, baked goods, and more.
- You can talk with and purchase from many vendors in the same visit, supporting multiple farms and local businesses!
- Many markets have music, cooking demos or other events for customers to enjoy.

Shopping tips:

- Arrive early for the best selection.
- Do a "lap" to see what's available before you buy.
- Bring your own bag.
- Bring small bills or check our directory to see if your market accepts debit, credit & EBT cards.
- Buy in bulk and in season for the best deals.
- Try something new and ask questions!
